THE REAL ISSUE

Tangled in pro and con arguments which always plague a controversial issue, the question of whether to close local bars during certain hours is shrouded with confusion.

The Interlocal Council, recognizing the seriousness of a situation which encourages the mingling of white and colored people in package stores adjoining bars located in colored sections here, presented a resolution recently advocating that all bars close at midnight and during Sundays.

An ordinance amendment passed in 1948 specifies that all bars located within certain specified boundaries are permitted to remain open continuously with the exception of several hours on Sunday by purchasing a special permit. The provision excludes 20 many reasons for proving their stands that the real issue has been lost. Actual consequences of the action are wrapped in a multitude of theories, some of which are hardly appropos to the situation.

The issue is the decadent, cancerous condition which exists in this city, which encourages nothing good and fine and which an appalling segment of supposedly informed people regard with dangerous complacency.

These conditions, which ultimately precipitate the downfall of a nation as proved by history, are rampant in the situation currently existing in our colored bars and package stores. Those who realize the facts, will take no exception to the statement.

But local trends of thought waste the road of reason at the point of prescribing a cure.

Proponents of the Resolution are evidently under the impression that with the closing of the bars this condition might miraculously disappear or at least be considerably improved.

However, even if surrounding municipalities should enact similar regulations, this type of night life would hardly be rooted from the vicinity. The facts are against the wishful thinking for establishments similar to those in colored town would grow and thrive outside of the city limits.

A city, state or nation can not legislate that its people be morally good and upright.

Another fact which resolutions advocates overlook is that whites frequent package stores which already close at midnight. It does not seem reasonable to expect that an ordinance change will effect the heart of the problem to any extent.

On the other hand, those who oppose the resolution claim that the change would put a hardship on farmers of the area by removing a drinking place for Negro labor. Actually, however, it might prove beneficial to the growers. If a worker turns up at all after an all night drinking round, it is extremely doubtful if he will work up to the standards of his employer. Also the eternal claim that he would have little trouble in spending their money in the 18 hours that the business would be open.

Packing high among the counter points is the argument that a cessation of the people will seek this type of recreation regardless of its location; consequently drunken drivers will populate the highways and the lawless element will be doing so endangering innocent people's lives.

Actually the number of motorists they would encounter from the hours of midnight until morning would be scarcely greater than those they'd chance to meet returning from places within the city. The point is not sufficiently heavy to balance the deplorable condition which is simmering in colored town.

The condition in our city is serious and warrants the thought of its citizens, but the resolution which its supporters place at so much hope in offers no panacea. Possibly closing the bars at midnight would be a move in the right direction, however, and it would probably be harmless to interests here.

But no law enacted by government was ever responsible for moral rejuvenation. Morals are not a matter for law; law is for those who are governed by education and religion. There can be no eradication of morals as the era of prohibition proved conclusively.

A sore spot of the city has been located. In the current crusades for or against a package store change, clear thinking as those points has eluded both sides.

The ordinance change probably would produce few of the effects which both sides predict.

The big issue, the important issue, is that we must stop our moral decay; if we are to retard it on county, state and national levels. The problem necessarily falls in the religious and educational realms and on the shoulders of people here who care and know this time, run, don't walk.

The department is active in the Glades fighting venereal diseases. In 1950 Glades nurses took 3,350 specimens of blood for testing which were examined for syphilis in the State Board of Health Laboratory. In addition, 351 gonorrhea examinations were made.

Do Glades need this attention? Last year 488 patients thrived the full time Glades VD investigator and a part time investigator for this area. In the same year the department arranged for the treatment of 218 syphilis and 220 gonorrhea cases in the Glades free of charge.

Harrison became interested in Ramie and pioneered fiber production from this plant for a number of years.

For several years Mr. Raoul's fiber work was carried on at Hillsboro Plantation as an associate until the past year when he became executive vice president and manager.

Several thousand acres are devoted to cattle, rice and winery. The vineyard is under the supervision of the C. E. Lutz family.

Development of 8800 acres of land has been recently made mostly for kenaf and ramie production, has gone along under Mr. Raoul's administration.

Previous to his coming to the Glades Mr. Raoul operated the Outdoor School at Sarasota.

of water from the lake area to the waste land between the lake and the coast is now being reand the additional rains would contribute to the situation.

Pointing out that the current condition may retard future investments in this section, Hotard said that the recent land buyers have been discouraged over the drainage problem.

"We have not had rains in the section since the first week in October, and at present some of the farm lands are still under water with little prospect of the water draining off an area," Hotard informed CFC officials.

He reported that the local chamber of commerce plans to organize a laymen committee to study the water control board.

This committee will continue to point out dangers which might arise, he said.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Thanksgiving dinners are traditional family affairs, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Lutz didn't believe in breaking established custom.

Among their 18 guests, all connect by family ties. At Thanksgiving dinner Thursday were those representing five different generations.

Starting with the oldest and working down were Mrs. Nettie Rice, 84, West Frankfort, Ill., C. Lutz, this city, great grandmother; Mr. Kenneth Lutz, this city, grandfather; Mrs. Beverly Morse, now staying with her parents here while her husband is in service, Mother and little Susan Kaye Morse, 16 months old daughter.

Young Susan Kaye did not lack for kin, for Mrs. Cora Hall, great great aunt of East St. Louis, Ill., and Mrs. Theone Burton, Detroit, Mich., a great aunt, were also at the gathering.

Members of the C. E. Lutz family were the guest list.

The author brings a story depicting the evil terror of the hurricanes and the quiet beauty of the Glades. She accurately describes the fabulous real estate boom and the tragic loss of fortunes in the nation's most colorful section.

TAXPAYERS OVER

The Florida real estate boom of the middle twenties had a decided influence upon the tax raises in taxes. Although new ones were not levied, existing ones were increased through gigantic bond issues.

During the influx period, in-

Too Late To Classify

Russell Kay

When it comes to publicizing Florida, a character named "Filppy" has been doing a job that might well make a lot of Chambers of Commerce and even the State Advertising Commission, turn green with envy.

Tom movie stars, Princess Elizabeth or Joe Stalin would have to hustle to keep up with "Filppy" when it comes to getting their names and pictures in the paper, on the radio, in the movie shorts or on television.

Although a national celebrity, "Filppy" doesn't even know or care. He has a scrapbook filled with thousands of clippings of stories and pictures that have appeared in the newspapers of the nation and the world.

In a single month his picture appeared in over 3,800 newspapers, with a combined circulation of over 40,000,000. Another 3,000,000 people saw "Filppy" on the screen at their favorite motion picture theatre.

He wasn't invited to participate in the National "Movietone" program but he has had more publicity than most of the stars now touring the country.

"Filppy" is doing a tremendous job for Florida. He has been invited to speak to a Chamber of Commerce, appear at a benefit or even take a bow.

You see, "Filppy" is a porpoise. Captured off the coast of Florida a few months ago, "Filppy" along with a number of other run-of-the-mill porpoises, was brought to Marine Studios at Marineland.

Animal trainer Adolf Frohn watched "Filppy" and his porpoise pals frolic about in the big Marine Studio tanks. He noted that "Filppy" seemed to be a jump or two ahead of his buddies when it came to going into the air for fish or racing for food across the pool.

No one had ever been successful in training a porpoise but Frohn wanted to try and he selected "Filppy" for his experiment. Removing "Filppy" to the lagoon Frohn began a course of training. The porpoise was taught to perform a lot of tricks. He learned to play ball, jump through a hoop, turn somersaults, and finally, permitted himself to be harnessed to a water-wheel which he would tow about the lagoon as though he had been doing it all his life.

The next step was to place a dog on the sled and let "Filppy" take him for a thrilling ride. "Filppy" got a big kick out of it and the dog, his ears up and tail wagging, seemed to get an equal thrill out of it.

In no time at all "Filppy" and the pup became the best of friends. The porpoise would frisk about when the dog was being placed on the sled, jumping out of the water now and then to nuzzle the pup.

Then the trainer would point to a helper who stood at the other side of the pool with a small fish. Hatched to the sled, "Filppy" would make a bee line for the fish. The dog, clinging to the sled, would bark with joy as he was being carried through the water at break-neck speed.

Later a gorgeous bathing girl replaced the dog on the water-sled, but this didn't worry "Filppy"; dogs, bathing girls or what have you made no difference to him. When his trainer held a plump fish aloft, that was the only signal he needed and he was on his way dragging the water-sled behind him.

Then he learned to jump through hoops suspended above the water. No matter what the trainer told him to do he seemed to understand and performed like a veteran.

It wasn't long before the news photographers, movie people and television folks learned about "Filppy." Here was something new and different. A porpoise.

Publicity Director John Dillon of Marine Studios didn't have to seek publicity for "Filppy." All the big picture services, the news reels, television camera men and movie people were at Marineland eager and anxious for a chance to publicize "Filppy."

John Dillon was a very happy P.R. man. The world just naturally fell in his lap. He didn't have to promote "Filppy" or Marine Studios; the boys were standing in line begging to be permitted to publicize "Filppy."

It was a publicist's dream. "Filppy" became famous overnight. Television shows were made that reached over 22 million people. All that Dillon insisted upon was that Marine Studios and Florida be given a gigantic debt of gratitude to "Filppy, the porpoise."

VETERANS INFORMATION AND SERVICE

By Melvin T. Dixon
State Service Officer

All veterans of the United States armed forces, disabled in military service anywhere in the world after June 27, 1950 are now eligible for vocational training on the same basis as World War II veterans, under Public Law 170, 82nd Congress, signed October 11, 1951.

Previously, the rehabilitation training had been limited to Korean veterans who needed it and whose service-connected disabilities had resulted from armed conflict or extra-hazardous service outside of combat under Public Law 894, 82nd Congress.

This limitation, in effect, barred hundreds of veterans disabled while serving in the United States or in non-combat zones elsewhere—from Federal sponsored training programs. Those entitled, in the past, were mainly veterans injured or disabled in Korea itself.

Public Law 170, which amends Public Law 894, 82nd Congress, lifts the bar by eliminating the "armed conflict" and "extra-hazardous" requirements.

This amendment extends vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16, 76th Congress, to those veterans disabled in any part of the world after fighting in Korea, and to those who overcome the handicap of a disability incurred or aggravated by such service for which compensation is payable. The disability must have been incurred in other-than-dishonorable conditions.

The fact that vocational rehabilitation was previously afforded under PL 16, or that education and training was afforded under PL 346, additional vocational rehabilitation may be provided under PL 170 to the extent necessary.

Any veteran who was not a citizen of the United States at the time of his service, who was afforded vocational rehabilitation only while a resident of a State, Territory, or possession of the United States or of the District of Columbia.

This benefit may be applied for within nine years after the termination date of the Korean conflict.

Notice has just been received that the deadline date for filing Indiana War II Bonus applications has been extended to December 31, 1951.

Fla. Commercial Fish Catch Is Estimated

Florida waters produced a commercial fish catch totaling 118,417,872 pounds of fish of all types last year, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce reported this week.

This total was made up of 84,566,333 pounds of food fish and 23,851,345 pounds of non-food fish.

Details of the fish catch are given in this week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division. Last year the principal types of food fish brought in Florida ports were black mullet 2,211,386 pounds; shrimp 22,901,721 pounds; grouper 6,260,381 pounds; croaker 6,260,382 pounds; Spanish mackerel 5,783,202 pounds; red snapper 4,110,108 pounds and spotted seatrout 4,482,704 pounds.

The total food fish catch reported in Florida in 1950 was 9 per cent below the 1949 catch but virtually the same as in the three preceding years.

Florida's principal non-food fish is menhaden or porgy. Last year's catch of this fish was 22,792,714 pounds, about half the 1949 volume and far below preceding years.

STATE OF C. OF C. TO HOLD BUSINESSMAN MEETING

To help business men better understand the federal wage and stabilization act, that so many business men will not be visited upon them, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a question and answer clinic to be a part of its 3-day annual membership meeting proceeding which will get under way at Palm Beach on Nov. 18. Alexander E. Wilson, Jr., of Atlanta, an authority on the law, will conduct the clinic on Monday afternoon, Nov. 19. Harold Cole, the organization's executive vice president, made this announcement this week.

B. STEVENS, CANDIDATE FOR FLA. GOVERNOR

Bruce Stevens, thirty-five years old, of Tampa, an unknown in the political world, has announced his candidacy for Governor of Florida.

Mr. Stevens, who is in the cattle business, attended Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Florida, and has earned the Degree of Doctor of Divinity (D.D.). During the second world war, he used his talents along with some noted American stars to entertain thousands of our soldiers in camps and in hospitals.

Mr. Stevens' statement follows: "In announcing my candidacy for Governor of this great state of Florida, I do so conscientiously, sincerely, and with a deep sense of humility. With the help of God, I am resolved to serve the people of Florida to the best of my ability and to the best of my knowledge. The real criminals who should be eliminated from our state are the smooth political mongers who have made Tallahassee their home and headquarters for bigger and better profits for themselves, resulting in losses to the people at large. The talent of organized politics has been made the fair game of Florida from coast to coast, causing more taxes than ever before to be exacted under the cloak of every perventive. Yet, as you know, the state's finances are lower than ever before. The waste and extravagance in spending the state's money is tremendous.

Fla. Bologists Agricultural Production By Drainage

Floridians have bolstered agricultural production through drainage of 6,075,530 acres of grazing and farm lands, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce pointed out recently.

Florida has 238 drainage enterprises, each of which affects 500 acres or more. Of these, 98 are operated under the drainage district plan, 102 are individually owned and 4 are commercial projects. Virtually all drained land is included in the 238 drainage operations, however, only 142 are drained in connection with the 1,652 irrigation enterprises throughout the State.

In 1920 there were 1,537,073 Florida acres drained and by 1950 there were 5,954,034 acres. Between 1920 and 1940 several projects were abandoned thereby reducing the acreage slightly. After 1940 drained acreage increased to 6,075,530 acres, net of abandonment.

Prior to 1940 a total of 5,922 miles of drainage ditches were constructed. Since that time 2,283 miles have been added. Cost of drainage projects tabulated in this week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division. The capital investment in use in Florida in 1940 was $45,486,600. Since then, $18,895,511 have been spent on operation, maintenance and new construction.

All outstanding indebtedness of the drainage projects in Florida was $22,261,949 in 1940. By last year this figure had been reduced to $12,759,985.

PLANS LAID FOR OCALA BRAHMAN SHOW, SALE

Plans for the eighth annual Ocala Brahman show and sale were discussed between Ocala interests and members of the show and sale committee of the Eastern Brahman Association, and entry blanks, regulations and premium list will be announced shortly by Bank Camp of Ocala, show manager and president of Southeastern Pasture Show and Sale, Inc.

The Ocala event will begin with entries on January 15, judging on January 16 and 17, and a sale of registered Brahman on January 18.

In the morning, W. H. Stuart, chairman of the association's show and sale committee, declared that sifting of nominations for the sale would be done immediately after Thanksgiving, so that the sale catalog could be in the hands of printers by the second week in December.

The 1952 show classification, as adopted by the Eastern association, conform to the official classes of the American Brahman Breeders' Association, and will embrace individual classes for eight age groups in both sexes, with selection of junior and senior champions and reserve champions, and a grand champion and reserve grand champion for both sexes.

The produce of dam will include two animals, either sex, the produce of one cow; and the get of sire will include four animals by one sire, both sexes to be represented and all owned by exhibitor.

Junior classes, worked out with H. G. Clayton, director of the agricultural extension service, and H. E. Wood, state supervisor of vocational agricultural education, will embrace three age groups for each sex, with champion and reserve champion selections for each group.

STEAKS ARE RANSOM FOR MARINE CAPTIVE

Pilots of a Leatherneck "Devilcat" squadron in Korea paid a rare price for the return of one of their pilots. . . the "ransom" was 100 pounds of steak, and it was paid to members of a pranks Army helicopter outfit, and not the Red Cross.

When a Marine pilot, shot down behind enemy lines, was rescued by an Army helicopter, the "copier men refused to return him to his home base until his squadron mates came through with the steak. . . the Marine pilot's only beef; he didn't even worth his own weight in beefsteak.

SAM DAVIS RESIGNS AS DISTRICT DIRECTOR

George D. Patterson, Jr., director, Regional Office of Price Stabilization, in Atlanta, Saturday, announced the resignation of Sam S. Davis, district director for the South Florida OPS with headquarters in Miami.

In making the announcement, Patterson also named John E. New 44, Sarasota, Florida, as acting district director for the South Florida office. Neel previously had served under Davis in the capacity of deputy director.

In a talk with his OPS district staff three weeks ago, Davis indicated his plans to resign his position "because of an influx of illnesses within his family, and a previous business commitment." However, at a meeting with Patterson shortly after his plans became known, Davis was persuaded to remain in the OPS program indefinitely.

Patterson in reporting the resignation, cited Davis for an "outstanding job, and for having one of the finest district compliance records in the Southeastern region and the country."

It is said Davis was recently named president of a reorganized Tampa shipping corporation. This election has been approved by the president and family illnesses, led to his eventual resignation. There is a possibility Davis will remain on a voluntary basis with the OPS in an advisory capacity. This however, has not been officially announced.

Before accepting the position with the OPS in an advisory his own insurance business in Tampa and was president of the Hillsborough Crime Commission.

CAMERA TOPICS

By T. H. Holden

FLASH LIGHTS UP A NEW PHOTOGRAPHIC WORLD

November is here—and those rainy days that popped up every now and again in October have become fewer and fewer, ending all doubt that Indian Summer has gone. Soon the countryside will be in a state of brilliant, blinding look—hardly the atmosphere to tempt you outdoors for picture-taking.

What will you do with your camera now? Is it on the shelf and wait for Spring again? Do that, and you will be missing at least half the fun of photography. With today's modern flash and photoelectric equipment, indoor picture-taking can be just as exciting to your photographic appetite as your summer landscape.

With flash, you have no farther to go than your own home to find an endless variety of interesting subjects. If there are children in your home, you have at your command one of the most popular and interesting subjects you could ask for. Photographing children of course, takes a little patience if you are to catch them in the act of doing something or story-telling activity—but your perseverance will be rewarded with some of the finest pictures you have ever captured on film.

Pets, too, fall into the "interesting subject" category. They are always available for picture-taking fun. If you don't have a pet yourself, no doubt you have a friend who does. Pets are so universal in their fondness for pictures of their animals, so it should be a relatively easy matter to have your friend bring his pet over to "pose."

And don't overlook family members as a source of interesting pictures, especially this Thanksgiving. You'll want pictures of that big holiday for the family album. You can improve your pictures a hundredfold this year by planning a simple shooting series of pictures you reasonably expect to find, and fill these with unexpected candid shots. This will give you a nice series of pictures full of story-telling interest.

So get a flashgun if you don't already have one. It will be better insurance against lonely winter nights.

Rev. Purcell invites the public to attend any and all of these services.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT ON DOWNWARD TREND

The trend in unemployment is still downward. There are 839 fewer claimants for weekly benefits with total payments reduced by $12,273, or from $173,242 to $160,969 this week, ended November 2, as compared to the previous week.

This decrease is reflected in the beginning of activities in citrus packing plants, step-up in nonagricultural labor generally and in services. It is expected that this downward trend will continue until employment reaches its peak about March 15.

In Palm Beach County, 246 received $4,235. The decrease in unemployment was reflected in 8 counties where no weekly payments were received.

It should be remembered in analyzing this report, reminds Chairman Raymond E. Barnes of the Florida Industrial Commission, that all registrants in the Florida State Employment Service offices do not receive benefits as they may not come under the insurance clause of the law, and employers who give service orders should bear this in mind. In fact a small percentage of those seeking jobs through the Employment Service can qualify for compensation, because, under the law, only employers with eight or which was followed by her re-appointment to a four year term by Gov. Fuller Warren, are deserved tributes to outstanding service in the public interest.

She has long been active in civic, garden and art circles and is a resourceful student of Florida's historic background.

Mrs. Butts has written a number of treatises growing out of her researches into the development of the Halifax section through which flow the Halifax and Tomoka rivers and around which much of Florida's early history revolves.

Mrs. Butts is committed to the policy of preserving the physical testimony of Florida's historic progress, as well as its geological and horticultural development as they are reflected in the 38 State-owned properties of 78,000 acres in all sections of Florida which the Board administers.

And in harmony with the Board it is her purpose to direct this development to the expansion of the State's $550 million annual tourist business which, at the same time, making the State's outdoor conservation and recreation minded residents.

FARM FOLKS HAVE MANY BLESSINGS TO EXPRESS THANKS FOR THIS YEAR

Although there is much trouble, unrest, and war in the world as Thanksgiving approaches, Florida farm people have much to be thankful for this time.

Most of them have harvested good crops and have received good prices for them.

They have made improvements in their farming, and have advanced in other ways.

Their land—from which food and fiber come—is in better condition than in many a year as a result of continuous tion of soil building and soil improving practices which they began several years ago. This improved condition of their land is reassuring, as it holds promise of good crops in the future.

Many are more comfortable than they have been in years, as they have been able to build better homes, remodel old ones, install electricity and running water and indoor bathrooms, and improve their abodes in other ways.

They have seen their communities prosper, and they have taken an active part in much of the progress.

While enjoying these benefits, they have been troubled, as have many other Americans, with national and international developments. They have read and heard numerous charges of dishonesty, selfishness, and incompetence in public and private life. They have learned with surprise and distress that there are people in this great country who are not loyal. The tragic Korean war has been a source of sorrow and apprehension to them. The opposition of some nations to efforts for world peace and friendship has seriously concerned them. It has convinced them that their country must be strong to strive for peace, to be ready for trouble.

In spite of those troublesome conditions and developments, however, they have much to be thankful for. They are the citizens of a great and good land, that there are many good men in public and private life—earnest, capable, and conscientious people, that they are free and enjoy a higher living standard than the people of any other land, that the peoples of many nations are earnestly striving for peace and friendship, and that there is hope for world peace.

In some other lands, people are not free nor nearly as fortunate.

So, in spite of difficulties and great national and international problems, the farm people of Florida and all the rest of the states have good reason to bow their heads in gratitude to God for his blessings on Thanksgiving Day, 1951.

FLA. TAXPAYERS TO HOLD MEETING NOV. 28

J. M. Fleming, president of Florida Taxpayers Association, recently announced the statewide membership meeting of the association will be held November 28, 1951, at the Hillsboro Hotel, Tampa, Fla.

The Board of Directors will meet at four P. M. for a business session, and the membership session will open with dinner at six P. M. There will be prominent guest speakers, including candidates who may be called upon to comment on the association's tax program.

Complete details and program will be mailed to all members, with list of speakers, soon as possible.

Mr. Fleming stated that R. L. Newman, Exec. Sec., attended the conference of Executives of Tax Foundation, Inc. and 371 U. S. Taxpayer Associations at Washington, D. C. in October, and that a tremendous wave of interest by taxpayers was evidenced by the fact that over 91 per cent of the U. S. population was represented at the conference.

Protein Supplements Of Value to Cattle in Winter

With winter temperatures reducing yields and quality of pasture, cattlemen were advised this week by the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Stations to make every effort to provide adequate protein supplements for their herds.

"When pasture grasses are brown and flaccid," Dr. George K. Davis explained, "a cow cannot eat enough of them to get sufficient protein for maintenance. The protein content of low just doesn't have the capacity for the amount that would be required to provide enough of the highly important feed constituent. If the cow does not get enough protein, she is sure to lose weight, may have trouble birthing a calf, or may not even survive the winter."

In view of livestock prices, the Experiment Station animal nutrition scientist pointed out, it is much more economical to provide protein than to allow animals to lose weight for want of it. For the guidance of cattlemen planning to buy and feed protein supplements, he offered these pointers:

Cottonseed meal is the most important and readily available in Florida. Total of digestible nutrients in the 36 percent meal is 45 percent, in the 41 percent meal it is 70 percent. One pound of 36 percent meal daily will require a third of the protein requirements for a cow, one pound of 41 percent meal will provide a half. Two pounds of 36 percent or slightly less of 41 percent meal are required to provide enough protein for a pregnant cow on average winter pasture.

Whenever peanut meal is fresh and available, it is a good substitute for cottonseed meal and is slightly higher in protein. Its disadvantage is its tendency to turn rancid after two months summer or six months winter storage. It is not available to feed winter pasture meal because it is unpalatable and may depress feed consumption.

Soybean oil meal is another good protein supplement, containing somewhat less phosphorus than cottonseed meal but slightly more protein.

Although occasionally less appetizing than cottonseed meal, sunflower seed meal, of which increasing amounts are being offered in Florida, runs between 49 and 50 percent protein and is satisfactory. It should be bought on a protein guarantee basis of 49 percent.

Cocoanut oil meal is satisfactory, but its protein content is only about 21 percent and, like sunflower seed meal, it should be fed in larger amounts than cottonseed meal to make up for the difference in protein.

Citrus molasses and citrus meal are low in protein, but high in calcium. If fed they should be supplemented with cottonseed meal, urea, or some other source of protein. It supplemented with other cottonseed meal, additional phosphorus also should be provided, as they are quite low in this element. (Mechanical mixing equipment is required for use of urea with either of these products.)

SELF EMPLOYED MAY NEED SOC. SECURITY NO.

If you work for yourself, you may need a social security account number when you file your income tax return for 1951, according to R. C. Gehrkens, Jr., manager of the W. Palm Beach social security office.

Mr. Gehrkens said that the 1950 amendments extended old-age and survivors insurance coverage to all self-employed persons except farmers and members of certain professional groups, such as doctors, lawyers, architects, engineers, public accountants, and funeral directors. Even farm operators, or people self-employed in the excluded professions are affected if, in addition to their regular work, they engage in a self-employment enterprise covered by the law. For example, a doctor who also operates a drugstore, or a lawyer who is also self-employed as an insurance broker, if you are covered by the law, you will have to pay a social security tax when you file your Federal income tax return for 1951, unless the net earnings derived from your trade or business are less than $400 for the taxable year. Payment of the tax is mandatory if you meet the requirements; however, only the first $3600 of your net earnings will be taxed. The tax rate for 1951 is 2 1/4% for self-employed persons, and the tax must be paid in full when you file your 1951 tax return.

"Some self-employed persons will be able to retire as early as January 1, 1953, and receive the maximum retirement benefit," Mr. Gehrkens said. For example, a person who reaches the age of 65 by January 1953 will be eligible for retirement at the maximum of $80 a month, if his net earnings are at least $3600 in each of the years 1951 and 1952.

As though an employee working for wages may file a claim as early as July 1, 1952, if he reached age 65 and retired at the end of the year, the self-employed person who reaches 65 at the same time must defer filing his social security claim until the beginning of 1953. The reason for this is that he cannot get credit for his 1952 earnings until he has filed them on his income tax return for that year, and he cannot do this until the beginning of the following year. If he does not file by then, his claim for social security retirement benefits until he has filed his 1952 return, his benefit payment rate will be based on his 1951 earnings only. Since a minimum of 18 months must be used in figuring the average monthly earnings upon which the benefit rate is based, he will not get the maximum in monthly payments that his self-employment earnings would indicate.

Self-employed persons who do not already have social security numbers can get them from the W. Palm Beach office of the Social Security Administration. Mr. Gehrkens said that his office has just received a supply of a new booklet called Do You Work For Yourself which explains social security for the self-employed. Any interested person can obtain a copy free of charge by telephoning 7296 or by writing a letter or postcard to the Social Security Administration, 501 N. Olive Avenue, W. Palm Beach, Florida.

ALTO ADAMS TO RUN IN GOVERNORS RACE

In four brief sentences, Alto Adams last week announced his candidacy for governor.

The 52-year-old Ft. Pierce rancher, businessman and former Supreme Court justice had been mentioned as a probable candidate for several weeks.

In one of the shortest political announcements in record, Adams said "I am a candidate for governor. I am a candidate for morality and reckless waste of public funds have led me to this decision. We need a revival of common-sense leadership. I am prepared to supply that leadership."

Adams is a native of Walton County and a graduate of the University of Florida. He was in 1924 and practiced law there until 1936, when he was appointed circuit judge of the Ninth Judicial District. During this period he branched out from his law practice to become a highly successful businessman. He still has widespread business interests in St. Lucie County, including a 20,000-acre cattle ranch.

Adams was named to the Governor's Council in 1940 by Gov. Fred P. Cone, and served as Chief Justice of the court in 1949-50. He resigned from the bench early last month.

Health Dept. Cautions On Selection Of Oysters

The housewife's best assurance of clean, healthy oysters is the certification number on the original container, the Florida State Board of Health said recently.

Certification numbers are assigned to oyster producers who comply with state regulations regarding harvesting and handling oysters from the beds in which they grow to final delivery to the consumer.

"In spite of state laws designed to assure a safe, clean product," says George W. Gehres, shellfish sanitarian with the state health agency's Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, "we still have a few illegal operators who are bootlegging shellfish. This bootleg product is potentially dangerous for such shellfish are generally taken from beds in which pollution exists. Some types of pollution can produce serious illnesses."

"The housewife who patronizes a reputable dealer who looks for the certification number on the original can have assurance that she is buying safe seafood."

A certification number is necessary for interstate shipment of shellfish, Gehres added.

Florida oysters, Gehres continued, compare favorably in taste, appearance and nutritional value with oysters produced anywhere else in the world.

"They are a good addition to the family diet. But they can be dangerous, like any other food product if taken from unsanitary growing areas or subjected to careless or improper handling methods."

PUBLIC RELATIONS FIRM TO BOAST FLA. PUBLICITY

A New York public relations firm is going to help the State Advertising Commission try to get more free publicity about Florida in national publications, newsreels and radio broadcasts.

The Advertising Commission has announced the signing of an eight-month contract with Hal Layton and Associates to act as a New York agent at $2,083 a month, plus miscellaneous expenses.

Beverly Grizard, advertising commission member and staff director, said it is necessary to seek more free publicity to compensate for advertising rates that have increased while the state appropriation has stood still.

"If we can't buy it, we'll create it," he said.
